SUBJECT: Determination Regarding Attendance by NASA Employees at a John Glenn Lecture Series and Reception hosted by the Boeing Company on July 20, 2009

On July 19, 2009, the Boeing Company, with co-sponsors National Institute of Aerospace, Google, Jacobs Engineering, Raytheon, Lockheed Martin, Honeywell, Ball Aerospace, United Space Alliance, Fischer Space Pen, Aerojet, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, American Forests, United Technology Corporation, Northrop Grumman, and Harris IT Services Corporation, will host a reception and a John Glenn lecture series at the National Air and Space Museum, in Washington, DC, from 7:00p.m.-8:00p.m.

This event will be a widely-attended gathering of approximately 150 representatives of NASA, the aerospace industry, Congress and their staffers, trade associations, academia, and media. The cost of the reception will be approximately $88.00 per person. I find that the reception meets the requirements of a "widely attended gathering" as defined in 5 C.F.R. § 2635.204(g)(2). I have determined that free attendance at the above mentioned reception is in the interest of the agency because it will further agency programs and operations. The event will provide NASA employees with the opportunity to discuss the 40th anniversary of of Apollo as well as developments in recent NASA programs with other attendees, and to hear their views and ideas concerning NASA.

Accordingly, NASA employees that have been invited to attend may accept free attendance at the event. They may also accept invitations for accompanying spouses or guests. However, NASA employees whose duties may substantially affect the event sponsors, such as by way of procurement duties, should seek an individual determination pursuant to 5 C.F.R. § 2635.204(g)(3)(i), regarding participation in this event from their local ethics counselor.

Moreover, NASA employees who are in non-career positions in which the President's Executive Order of January 21, 2009, requires signing an ethics pledge may only attend if they reimburse the sponsors the cost of the reception for themselves and any accompanying guest.
