Presentation Abstract	With the recent release of NPR7150.2A there is a need to harmonize the standards supporting this NPR. In particular the Software Safety Standard and the Software Assurance standard reflect the notions captured in the previous versions of NPR7150.2. This presentation discusses the changes being made to the two standards. Specifically, the harmonization process not only between the standards and the NPR are covered, but the relationship between the two standards and the focus on generating a software assurance process standard.
