SUBJECT: Release of NPD 2200.1A, Management of NASA Scientific and Technical Information

NPD 2200.1A, Management of NASA Scientific and Technical Information (STI), was approved effective December 6, 2007, and is now available in NASA Online Directives Information System (NODIS).

This important NPD defines STI and establishes policy for the mandatory review and approval of STI prior to its external release or publication, or internal access by non-US Persons. It also defines when this review and approval, via NASA Form (NF) 1676, "Document Availability Authorization," is required. The NF-1676 review helps ensure that no export-controlled, Sensitive But Unclassified (SBU), and other restricted or copyrighted STI, is inappropriately released from the Agency.

For information about specific roles in publishing, reviewing, or approving NASA STI, please refer to Section 5 of the NPD. For additional information, you may also see "Publish STI FAQs" at http://www.sti.nasa.gov/nasaonly/publish/faq_publish.html.

For more information or if you have questions about STI, please contact the STI Program Office Help Desk at help@sti.nasa.gov, (301)621-0390, or Lynn Heimerl of the Agency STI Program Office at n.l.heimerl@nasa.gov, (757)864-2343.
