

NONREIMBURSABLE SPACE ACT AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION
LYNDON B. JOHNSON SPACE CENTER AND COLGATE-PALMOLIVE COMPANY FOR COLLABORATION ON HUMAN PERFORMANCE, INNOVATION &
SUSTAINABILITY.

ARTICLE 1. AUTHORITY AND PARTIES

In accordance with the National Aeronautics and Space Act (51 U.S.C. § 20113(e)), this Agreement is entered into by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center, located at 2101 NASA Parkway, Houston, Texas 77058 (hereinafter referred to as "NASA" or "NASA JSC") and Colgate-Palmolive Company located at 300 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10022-7402 (hereinafter referred to as "Partner" or "Colgate-Palmolive, C-P"). NASA and Partner may be individually referred to as a "Party" and collectively referred to as the "Parties."

ARTICLE 2. PURPOSE

This Agreement will be for the purpose of facilitating collaboration between the Parties that could lead to a better understanding of how humans can maintain a high level of hygienic and physical performance while training for, recovering and working in the environment of microgravity. Specifically, Colgate-Palmolive seeks to expand upon its expertise in the field of oral care, personal care, skincare, and sustainable products. Through this collaboration, Colgate-Palmolive and NASA will explore the various challenges faced by both Parties, seeking out innovative, mutually-beneficial solutions.

This collaborative partnership will assist NASA in achieving several of its Strategic Goals as outlined in its 2018 Strategic Plan. Per Strategic Objective 1.2, NASA seeks to better understand human responses of biological and physical systems to space flight in order to enable further space exploration while also pioneering uses to benefit life on Earth. Under NASA Strategic Objective 2.1, NASA seeks to further enable the low Earth orbit economy by allowing commercial entities to utilize the International Space Station as an experimental testing ground. Strategic Objective 2.2 focuses on NASA's need to understand and mitigate the highest risks to astronaut health and performance to ensure that crews remain healthy and productive during long-duration missions beyond low Earth orbit. Finally, Strategic Objective 3.3 further emphasizes NASA's responsibility to inspire and engage the public. The Space Act specifically tasks NASA "to provide for the widest practicable and appropriate dissemination of information concerning its activities and the results thereof, and to enhance public understanding of, and participation in, the Nation's space program in accordance with the NASA Strategic Plan."

This Agreement will allow Colgate-Palmolive to collaborate with NASA to explore innovative, sustainable new ideas that fulfill Colgate's purpose to reimagine a healthier future for all as well as NASA's 2018 Strategic Plan Objectives 2.2 and 3.3. The Parties envision a collaboration that focuses on the following areas. Note, the following are a list of technical interchange discussion areas only; there will be no products supplied or tested, on the ground or in-space, under this Agreement:

Oral health for the crew and all people:

1. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of C-P oral care innovations and technologies (e.g. C-P's connected health electric toothbrush) that can help maintain or improve the health & well-being of NASA astronauts during low Earth orbit, prior to, during and after long-duration missions beyond low Earth orbit. Additional collaboration to educate crew and NASA about oral hygiene best practices and the impact of oral health on overall health and well-being;
2. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of C-P oral care innovations and technologies that could help to improve the health & well-being of all people, including potential discussion on how to utilize the International Space Station as an experimental testing ground;

Skin health for the crew and all people:

3. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of C-P skin health innovations and technologies that can help maintain or improve the skin health, hygiene and comfort of NASA astronauts during low Earth orbit, prior to, during and after long-duration missions beyond low Earth orbit;
4. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of C-P skin care innovations and technologies that could help to improve the health & well-being of all people, including potential discussion on how to utilize the International Space Station as an experimental testing ground;

Sustainable hygiene for the crew and all people:

5. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of C-P sustainable hygiene innovations and technologies that are suitable for space consumption during low Earth orbit and in long-duration missions beyond low Earth orbit, including low water usage products; compact packaging; durability and shelf stability; non-flammability; and products that take into consideration in-flight requirements (e.g., waterless tablets; toothbrushes);
6. Collaboration via discussion that may lead to advancements in oral care, personal care, skin care, and sustainable products using insights from the unique considerations of astronauts in space around environment and mass/power/volume/budget limitations;
7. Collaboration to discuss testing and evolution of sustainable hygiene innovations and technologies suitable for remote and hard to supply and re-supply areas such as low Earth orbit as well as very remote, challenging and/or hazardous locations on Earth; including long shelf life and use items, refilling of containers, reusable materials, easily transportable, trackable and distributable items, indicators of viability and/or failed composition, repairable toothbrushes and hygiene tools.
