YOUR FLIGHT LOG

Hi! My name is Orville D. Squirrel. Ever since I was young, I have enjoyed traveling, especially when I could fly to new places.

I am hoping that you can help me explore more of the world. When you travel somewhere, I would love if you would take me with you! While I love to fly, you can bring me along on any trip even if you travel in some other way. If you can't travel, you can help me by sending me, either through the mail or through email, to people you know in other places.

Did you know that pilots keep a flight log to record every time they fly? You can print out your own flight log and keep track of everywhere we go!

I hope you have fun helping me see the world. I can't wait to see all the places we go!

Directions

1. First, print out a copy of Orville. You can print the color version or the black and white version. If you print the picture of Orville as well as the page that follows as a 2-sided document, there will be a log on the back of Orville to record his travel. Or just keep the log as a separate page.
2. Add your name to the sticker Orville is wearing which says, “I’m traveling with” and is located near his left arm. If you are using the black and white version of Orville, personalize him however you like.
3. While Orville travels, take photos of him in fun places if you can. If you send Orville to a friend or family member, ask them to take pictures, too.
4. After Orville takes a trip, either real or virtual, log it in your flight log. To get the distance for a trip, you can enter your home and the destination in an online mapping program.
5. Use a map to mark all the places Orville travels to. This can be done using an online mapping site or an actual map.
