

A Day in the Lunar Life of Callie

When Callie woke up that morning, she knew it was going to be a/an _____ day. She [adjective]
got out of bed and enjoyed some _____ and dehydrated _____. She put on [noun] [noun]
her bright _____ uniform and prepared to go out on the lunar surface. Outside, she could [color]
see Earth, which looked like a/an _____ from her angle, and if she squinted, she thought [noun]
she could see _____. She started on her task, which involved _____ [planet] [verb ending in -ing]

a Moon rock to determine daily changes in the Moon's environment. RT hovered _____ her, logging [preposition]
the information and _____ at the same [verb ending in -ing]
time. After recording, she attempted to juggle _____ rocks, but they were as [number] [adjective]
difficult to catch as a slippery _____. Finally,
[noun]
she decided to _____ around the Moon [verb]
and admire the _____ atmosphere she lives in.
[adjective]

The Moon reminds her of _____, sometimes, [place]
because of its plentiful _____. As she finally [plural noun]
returned to the base, she thought about what a _____ day she'd had.
[adjective]

