

NASA Glenn Research Center Announces 2021 Aviation Day Virtual Event

Aviation Day is a virtual event celebrating the advancements in aviation and inspire middle and high school student interest in STEM fields as they relate to aeronautics.

Learn about
NASA Glenn Research Center's role in aviation

Celebrate the birth month of Orville Wright

Take a virtual tour of a NASA wind tunnel

Participate in a hands-on STEM activity

Learn how the Wright Brothers achieved controlled flight

August 26, 2021
10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

Key Registration Dates

Opens May 3, 2021 • Closes July 23, 2021

Due to software limitations, the event will be limited to 180 connected devices.

For eligibility requirements and registration information, please visit <https://www.nasa.gov/centers/glenn/stem/one-day-stem-events/aviation-day-2021/>.

Pushing Boundaries Breaking Barriers